Date: 20th August , 2016

Frontier Mediville Auditorium

Maurice Lev & Saroja Bharathi Cardiac pathology museum and International Centre of Excellence in Cardiac Pathology

A veritable 'Noah's Ark' of heart specimens is what is lodged in the Maurice Lev and Saroja Bharathi Museum and International Centre of Excellence in Cardiac Pathology at Frontier Mediville. As you enter the building that houses this museum you can see large windows opening out to stunning views of the countryside. A carefully recreated working office of Dr. Maurice Lev greets the visitor with his lab coat hanging on the wall and a table with several pencils in their holder. Stacked neatly in rows are several racks housing pathology specimens of human organ systems both normal and diseased. The extensive pathology lab is in the interior and on return, to the left, is the room of Dr. Saroja Bharati, stacked with copies of all her many books and nearly four hundred and twenty five of her articles on heart diseases published in International Journals.

Saturday the 20th August 2016 - "Hands on Experience" of a variety of heart lesions will be discussed by Chief Mentor Dr. Saroja Bharati - Professor of Pathology, Rush Medical University, Chicago, Illinois, and senior cardiologists, cardiothoracic surgeons.
